Voters Return Two with Houston Losing to Amorello

in his district on election day. The Chronicle caught up with him at Uxbridge High School.

By Andree A. Belisle

There apparently were not too many disgruntled voters in Rep. Richard Moore's (D-Uxbridge) 8th Worcester District, judging by his margin of victory over GOP challenger Josiah "Joe" Burch. Moore captured 71% of the vote, winning 10,651 to 4,254. In Sutton, Moore won by 720 votes, 1740 to 1020.

Next door in the 7th Worcester District, Independent candidate Alan Tuttle narrowly lost to incumbent Rep. Paul Kollios (D-Millbury) by 16 votes (8,252 to 8,236), a margin that an editorial in the Telegram & Gazette said "begs for a recount." Voters in Auburn gave the victory to Kollios (3832 to 3076). Kollios lost the hometown race to Tuttle who took Millbury 2798 to Kollios' 2376. Both Kollios and Tuttle live in Millbury. Tuttle also captured a majority in Oxford with 2362 votes to Kollios' 2,044. Tuttle has announced that he will seek a recount.

In the 1st Worcester and Middlesex State Senate race, incumbent John Houston (D-Worcester) lost to political newcomer Matthew Amorello, a Republican, by nearly 800 votes (28,077 to 27,285). Voters in Millbury chose Amorello over Houston with a narrow margin of 2582 to 2484, or 98 votes. In Sutton, Houston lost by 659 votes, 1727 to 1068.

In the U.S. Senate race won by incumbent John Kerry, voters in Millbury chose Kerry while voters in Sutton chose Republican challenger Jim Rappaport.

In the Governor's race, Sutton voters chose the winning combination of Weld/Cellucci while Millbury voters gave the edge to the losing team of Silver/Clapprood.

Millbury and Sutton voters again took opposite sides in the Attorney General's race, with Millbury picking the winner, Democrat Scott Harshbarger, over Republican William Sawyer.

In the Treasurer's race, it was Malone over Galvin in both Millbury and Sutton by a wide margin.

For Auditor, Millbury picked the winner, incumbent Democrat Joseph DeNucci, while Sutton went with Republican Douglas J. Murray.

On the Ballot Questions, voters in Millbury and Sutton voted in favor of abolishing the state census, against the CLT tax rollback, against changing the rules for political parties and candidates, for allocating state aid, and against free and equal broadcast time for candidates. The only ballot question voters in Millbury and Sutton disagreed on was restricting the state's use of consultants. Millbury voted 2598 to 2481 against restrictions while Sutton voted 1551 to 1282 for restrictions.

Chief Updates Board and Asks for Residency Waiver

By Alec G. Belisle

SUTTON - The full board of Selectmen met for their regular meeting, Tuesday, October 30. Present was Police Chief William Baker who gave board members a review of his work since his appointment in July.

Baker said his first few weeks on the job were devoted to resolving grievances and unfair labor practices filed against the former chief. He said at the end of the first week and subsequent weeks, which were marked by mutual cooperation and respect, all of the previously unresolved issues were resolved. He expressed great praise for the men and the quality of police work in Sutton.

Baker explained that he established structural changes with the creation of a detective/court officer position on an administrative schedule and with the promotion of John Annis to the position of Lieutenant. He also said he has delegated supervisory responsibility to the sergeants and allowed them the opportunity to provide input on policy matters.

Baker said Sgt. Conley now has the responsibility for creating a simpler and more efficient record keeping system and changing the department scheduling. Sgt. Hebert has been called upon for some special functions to straighten out evidence procedures, establish a personnel evaluation procedure and perform yearly evaluations of full and part time officers. Sgt. Harris has the responsibility of overseeing cruisers and other police equipment maintenance, and he has worked with Baker in revising a number of policy areas. Lt. Annis has been keeping a complete equipment inventory which will help in the planning for capital expenditures. In addition, Annis has been given responsibility for creating a sustained public relations program which will include classes on burglary reduction for the public. In addition, Annis is responsible for internal discipline and for training, which will include hosting the Blackstone Valley Training Program. Baker said his supervisory staff were given responsibilities and "have just performed incredibly."

Baker went on to explain how he has tried to meet with all town groups and has a goal to expand the educational role of the police department, including having an officer teach a course in the schools, if it proves feasible.

He also said he sought to restore public confidence by meeting with neighborhood groups, school officials, and civic and business groups and has tried to create a positive public image by visible traffic enforcement, frequent neighborhood patrols, and fair and impartial enforcement of the law.

Marine Corps Contest Winner

MILLBURY - Tiffany LaPierre, daughter of Bruce and Pam LaPierre, stands next to 5th grade teacher Pat McDonough after she was informed that she was one of the winners of the "Operation Eagle" contest. The contest was sponsored by the United States Marine Corps and was designed to have students write letters and draw posters which were sent to American soldiers stationed in Saudi Arabia. Tiffany's winning letter introduced herself and told of seasonal changes. Her winning poster was an American flag against a peaceful pastoral setting.

Tiffany was the only winner at the Shaw School and will be presented a $50.00 Savings Bond at a special dinner November 16 at 7:30.

Thank You...

The response to the Schoolhouse Supper, a joint effort of the West Millbury Social Union and the Millbury Historical Society, was heartwarming. Through the dedication of many, 130 people were served. Our gratitude is extended to those who joined us on this pleasant occasion. Also, it is necessary to acknowledge the merchants and others who contributed, members and friends who cooked, baked, prepared food items, set up, served, and cleaned up.

All this is an indication that there is hope for the preservation of the little red schoolhouse which sits silently by the side of the road.

Another Point of View

Congratulations! You made a difference!

By Lawrence Moore

Election day turnout in Massachusetts was record-setting. Amazingly, the trend in almost all other states was exactly opposite. In spite of the anti-incumbent rhetoric, voters in other states didn't put their votes where their mouths were. As a result, the positions of the incumbent congressmen were solidified. They have large "campaign funds," their attractiveness to the lobbyists and the PAC's will increase, and their ability to withstand challenges in 1992 will be enhanced.

Apparently it takes a major statewide concern to bring out the vote. In states where taxes, abortion, or morals were prominently publicized, people reacted. Where there was no focus, malaise continued. Consequently, there was no general change in the makeup of the Congress. Actually, the Democrats enhanced their position.

Anti-incumbency, then, should be the next major local and national crusade. One congressional aspirant organized a "lottery" with a $1.00 entry fee, promising a $10,000 payoff to every entrant if he stayed in office more than 8 years. The movement is catching on. Three states now limit terms. Editorials in widely divergent media, including the unexpected Wall Street Journal, are taking up the fight.

Here in Massachusetts, in spite of the turnout, most incumbents were reelected. But the margins were slimmer. A 16 vote difference (subject to recount) separated Kollios and Tuttle. Moore, on the other hand, won with the largest (71%) share of voters in the State. It would seem that the voters judged each candidate by how close his performance matched the voters perceived personal interest.

Now it remains to be seen how Weld and the Legislature will put our own "revolt" into practice. Bulger says he and Weld will work together to carry out the "mandate of the people." Weld says, "Scrap the service sales taxes." Bulger says, "Postpone the service sales taxes." Can Weld give in on his first test? Will Bulger back down on his first confrontation?

Limiting incumbency might give an edge to elected officials' consideration of what's best for all of Massachusetts rather than doing what's best for campaign fodder. Right now, Impact Fee legislation is being delayed because legislators won't act until developers (contributors) are satisfied with the statute. A project beneficial to 98% of the people is being delayed because some legislators won't do what's good for the state if it endangers their contributions. Sad, isn't it? Limited terms will help.

How do you keep up the pressure? Visit your legislator when he's in your town. Write to him and to the papers. Who will be the fist on Beacon Hill to save some "office expense" and provide an "800" phone line from his district to his Boston office?

Congratulations, voters! You've won round one! It's at least a 15 round fight. Hang in there!

Beacon Hill Roll Call

With thousands of bills pending and Governor-elect Bill Weld's call for the legislature to reconvene to repeal the recently passed expanded sales tax on services, the legislature is now scheduled to end its recess and go back into session on November 26. The extension of the 5% sales tax to services was part of the $1.2 billion tax package approved by the legislature and signed into law by Governor Dukakis in July. The package extends the sales tax to some 594 services.

While Weld is pushing for outright repeal of all service taxes, Senate President Bill Bulger has responded by saying he prefers postponement of the new taxes. Weld's assertion that the repeal will cost $71 million has been challenged by opponents of the repeal who say the figure is closer to $178 million. They also claim it will be very difficult to convince the legislature to repeal the tax in the face of a projected multi-million dollar budget shortfall.

Currently, two bills to repeal the taxes have been filed by Representative Greg Sullivan (D-Norwood) and are stuck in the House Rules Committee. One would repeal all the service taxes while the other would repeal 590 of the 594 categories, leaving intact only the ones on businesses for engineering, architectural, legal and accounting services.

Back in July, Sullivan and House Minority Leader Steve Pierce (R-Westfield) proposed several amendments to modify or repeal the taxes. Speaker George Keverian ruled them all out of order and beyond the scope of the bill being considered. The House upheld the Speaker's ruling in all six cases.

The Speaker's supporters said the amendments should not be allowed because this would set a bad precedent in light of the fact that they are not related to the bills being considered. Opponents said the rulings were an undemocratic smokescreen to prevent a vote on repeal and noted three months have passed since these rulings and the vote to repeal has yet to reach the House floor. They also argued the amendments clearly relate to the bill being considered.

With proposed repeal or delay likely to be on the legislative agenda shortly, this week's "Beacon Hill Roll Call" records the votes of Representatives Richard Moore (D-Uxbridge) and Paul Kollios (D-Millbury) on the six roll calls to repeal or modify the service tax.

Baker then asked the board to discuss the residency requirement prior to his appointment after his probationary period is completed. He asked that the policy be waived on the following grounds: 1) Because of the depressed real estate market, Baker said he is unable to sell his house which has been on the market since February 3 at $50,000 below its assessed value. He said he has had fewer than 10 people look at his house. In addition, he said that if he cannot sell his house, he cannot afford to buy another. He said even if the market conditions change he is not sure he will be able to afford to purchase a house in Sutton. 2) Baker said there is a state law which allows police officers and other safety officers to live within 15 miles of their place of employment. He said he lives 12.3 miles from Sutton and can get to Sutton in 20 minutes. He also noted that those officers who are left in charge are capable of handling situations until he arrives. 3) He said that he gathered that the selectmen intended to have a chief with a resident-like interest in the community. He said he takes his public safety responsibilities very seriously and has applied himself with the same work ethics of a resident. 4) He said he noted in the hiring policy that the requirement could be waived.

Baker said he felt the board could either waive the requirement or adopt a hard and fast policy. "If that's the board's position, I thought that appropriate that we find that out now, and if the board feels that way and it's negatively impacting on my ability to continue to serve you as police chief then I'm certainly man enough to accept that. I'd like to know that now or in the not too distant future so I can make appropriate plans to go some place else, which would not be my preference, incidentally," he said.

Selectman Wally Johnson said he had no quarrel with Baker's performance but that the board had discussed, decided and adopted a policy. He indicated that part of that discussion took place before a large gathering of residents in the town and that the consensus was that the town and the board wanted a chief to reside in Sutton. He questioned whether the board should be discussing a waiver now.

Selectmen Rick LaBonte, Dave Strieby and Mike Chizy said they would prefer having the chief of police live in Sutton but were sensitive to the real estate market and felt it was unfair to ask the chief to suffer financial hardship.

Board Chairwoman Mary K. Connor remarked that the waiver is a topic which the board should discuss. She added that the residency requirement should have been discussed before Baker was hired if the issue was so important. She also said that at this time, it is not an important issue.

The board decided to place the topic on a future agenda.

In other matters, Town Administrator Dexter Blois announced that the Town Hall will be closed on Friday, November 23 and Monday, December 24.

BEACON HILL

REPEAL - House 107-38, 84-64, and 92-52 upheld Speaker Keverian's ruling out of order three amendments repealing the entire tax on services. The second and third amendments were both to a $1.45 billion deficit bond package to pay outstanding fiscal 1990 bills. A "Yea" vote is against allowing the amendment on the floor for a vote. A "Nay" vote is for allowing the amendment on the floor for a vote. Moore voted yes on the first amendment, no on the second, and yes on the third. Kollios voted against allowing the amendments on the floor on all three votes.

MORE REPEAL - House 104-45 upheld the Speaker's ruling out of order an amendment allowing any tax revenue for fiscal 1991 derived from the sales tax to only be derived from the current sales tax on goods. Letter Writing Campaign

MILLBURY - The History Club of Millbury High School is encouraging a letter writing campaign for local soldiers in the Middle East. Addresses for the following are available from the club: Lincoln Barton, Jr., Steve Couture, Thomas Devine, Bob Guyan, and John Neiduski. If you have information about any other serviceman/woman from the local area, contact Roger Desrosiers at Millbury High School (865-5841). The club would like to include all local military personnel in the campaign. Millbury High students are also donating money to send packages of non-perishable items to soldiers in Saudi Arabia.

Nightlights to be Distributed

MILLBURY - The Visiting Nurse Associations of Massachusetts, Inc. (VNAM), a statewide association of 50 visiting nurse associations, recently received a donation of 10,000 nightlights from GTE Products Corporation of Danvers. The gift was coordinated through the United Way of Mass. Bay in Boston.

District nursing associations serve a significant number of newborn and pediatric patients at home. The District Nursing Society will be distributing these colorful nightlights with cartoon characters to all current pediatric patients and mothers with newborns visited under its special maternal child health programs in the towns of Millbury and Sutton.

"We are very pleased that our agency was given this donation," said Betty A. Hamilton, District Nursing Society Executive Director. "It complements the very specialized care that our nurses, therapists and home health aides are providing to this fragile population. It also reinforces our agency's tradition of caring for all ages."

The District Nursing Society provides skilled nursing, rehabilitation, home health aide services and more throughout Millbury, Sutton and surrounding towns. The society is a member of the Visiting Nurse Associations of Massachusetts and the United Way of Central Mass.

If you need a nightlight for your infant or child, call Yvonne at 865-3561.

From My Window on Farnsworth Court

By "Pastor Rae" Cameron

T.W.3 (That Was The Week That Was) - Wow, it sure has been an exciting time with the election, the Pine Grove problems, and the calling up of more troops to Arabia. All of these should bring every one of us to our knees in prayer and hope for the future.

Picture the dear lady at Pine Grove who stops in front of the crucifix and prays that she will not have to be moved. I hold a Worship Service there every month and it has been quite an experience. I was taken aback at first, but being an old time "street preacher" I have been able to handle the situation. We all hope something can be done to maintain this vital service.

Reports are coming back to us from Arabia that the service personnel there are having a religious revival. Being in the midst of Bible territory they have been reading their Bibles and many have experienced what we Baptists call, "believer's baptism." Perhaps they have seen the devotion of the Arabs to their faith and have done a search of their own Christian heritage as well. Whatever, we all hope that things will be resolved in that part of the world.

The election sent a message of hope that our State and communities can have a brighter future with new leadership. Locally, I perceive the message was that we don't like the higher taxes but we do appreciate the many services to our community made possible by our representative.

We are coming to the Advent Season and the whole message of that season is one of hope. As we remember the birth of our Lord Jesus Christ, we are brought back to the hope of His coming and what it has meant to us in the past. We are also reminded that part of His message was that He would come back again. For the Christian, that is called, "The blessed hope and the glorious appearing of our Lord Jesus Christ." Amen....

On The Shelf

By Rosemary Waltos

Here in Massachusetts, small public libraries like the Millbury Public Library, as well as large libraries, are supported by a web of services that equalizes library services across the state. The purpose of these services is to give the same access to information and materials to all people regardless of the size or type of community they reside in.

This web of services is spun from the Massachusetts Board of Library Commissioners and stretches across the Commonwealth to create the Eastern, Central and Western Regional Library Systems. Each of these three systems caters to the needs of the public libraries that reside within their boundaries.

Millbury, as you can guess, falls into the Central Massachusetts Regional Library System. Headquartered in Worcester at the Worcester Public Library with sub-regional offices at the Fitchburg Public Library, the Region has been assisting Millbury Public Library and the other 70 member libraries in the region since 1961. The Central Region, along with the Eastern and Western Library Systems, consists of a team of librarians and support staff committed to public libraries and the services they provide.

Regional Systems are silent partners with individual member libraries in providing public library services. They make us, on the local level, shine to our public by giving us the ability to offer materials and services beyond the financial resources of our own communities.

What exactly does the Region do for local public libraries? While services in each Regional System may vary in focus and strength, they all provide interlibrary loan and information services, and provide a supplementary collection of print and non-print materials, including 16mm film and videocassette tapes. In addition, they provide delivery, bookmobile and printing services, develop children's summer reading programs, work with local bibliographic computer networks and provide professional library consulting services. Materials, equipment and services to people who cannot use print books because of visual, physical, or learning disabilities are offered from the Central Region Library System.

A recent survey done in the Central Massachusetts Regional Library System shows that the three most critical services that the Central Region provides to public libraries are interlibrary loans, delivery and bookmobile services.

Interlibrary loan, or ILL in library lingo, was ranked by over 50% of Central Massachusetts public libraries as being the most critical service that they receive from the Central Region. ILL is offered to users who request materials that are not owned by their local library. The requests for materials not in the local library collection are sent to the Regional Interlibrary loan office. The Region searches its regional computer database and, in most cases, can fill requests from other library collections. As a result, patrons usually can get ILL materials about two weeks after their initial request. If requested materials are not found locally, the Regional consults a larger computer network that includes collections found in libraries across the country and abroad.

Bookmobile service was identified as the second most important Central Region service. Materials received from the Regional bookmobile supplement the collections of communities with populations smaller than 15,000. Four times a year, each small library is visited by the Regional bookmobile. Materials stocked on the Regional bookmobile include popular children's, adult's and young adult's fiction and nonfiction, including large print titles, books on tape and compact disks. During each visit, the library staff selects 150 or more titles to supplement the collection. In Millbury, this collection is made available to the public in the library's new book section.

The third most valued service, according to libraries surveyed, is van delivery service. Materials are transported via Regional delivery vans linking libraries across the sate. Because of this service, reciprocal borrowing among libraries and their users is possible. To Millbury residents, it means materials borrowed from Worcester Public Library, or any other public library, can be returned to the Millbury Public Library to be picked up and delivered to the lending library. Van delivery also makes interlibrary loan and audio visual services affordable and fast. Here in Millbury, we receive delivery twice a week.

These Regional Services administered by the Massachusetts Board of Library Commissioners and provided by the three Massachusetts Regional Library Systems are services that otherwise would be unaffordable to most communities. Without them, local libraries would essentially function as reading rooms. Your state tax dollars, $1.30 per capita annually, enables the Millbury Public Library to be more than a reading room, it enables it to be vital library and information resource center, providing materials and services to the entire community for its enjoyment and independent learning and education needs.

Season Ends With Win

Kevin Shaw (#33) races toward the goal line with the opposition in hot pursuit.

In the final game, it's only fitting that the ending should be a classic. That's what happened in last week's final game for the Millbury-Sutton Raiders and the Mattahunt Patriots. The Raiders won 8-6 but not without causing a few heart palpitations first. With 19 seconds left on the official clock, but only 11 seconds showing on the score board, the Patriots ran a drive up the middle from the five yard line to the one foot line where the Raider defense stopped them. They were unable to get another playoff before the official time ran out.

The game was close throughout with the Raiders breaking through in the second quarter on a run around right end by Kevin Shaw. Jeff Nadeau, on a dive over the right side, added the two point conversion. Then it was the defense's turn. They continually stopped the Patriots and forced them to turn over the ball. Early in the fourth quarter, the Raiders appeared to have scored an insurance TD but had it nullified on a clip. That drive stalled at the Patriots' three yard line. On their first play from scrimmage, after the change of possession, the Patriots scored on a 97 yard run by Sharif Hartgrove. The crucial two point conversion was snuffed back at the five yard line by the defense led by Kevin Shaw. The Raiders got the ensuing kickoff but failed to mount a drive and gave Mattahunt their final chance. During the Patriots final drive, Kevin Shaw twice dumped Patriot running backs deep behind the line of scrimmage to slow down their drive and set up the dramatic conclusion.

As a final note, especially to those of you out there who know me, I'd like to say that the Millbury Sutton Raider organization is something to be proud of. The coaching staff, led by Brian Herbert and Tom McKenney, did a tremendous job of providing the young men of Millbury and Sutton with an alternative fall sport that is steeped in American tradition and taught them how to play hard and to hold their head high no matter what the outcome. They taught them to play the sport fair and clean. The fact that there were no injuries this season is a good indication that the coaches did a super job in preparing the players physically. Thanks, coaches, and when does summer camp open?
